Comment:	Money would be better spent providing teachers ppe and adding aids on a temporary basis to open schools and not spend $250,000 on a “program” to teach kids what to tell other kids what to do or say in event someone is depressed. They are depressed because they are NOT IN SCHOOL! So when sac county gets into the red zone be prepared not reactive to getting schools ready to open!!!’

Comment:	I submitted this question: Why is SCUSD pushing for re-opening Schools before the 2nd wave of this Pandemic, with the probability of a Twindemic and trending rise in R Factor as we approach Flu Season? What is your plan for addressing outdated ventillation systems in order for ALL staff and students to return safely and what portion of the ($50 mil?) Covid Relief funds will be used toward that goal? Thank you.

Comment:	There are recommendations for air filtration before schools open. Is SCSUD testing all HVAC systems at all sites? My child has been in portables that had HVAC issues and the units are old. Is SCUSD testing for air changes per hour? My son has two autoimmune diseases and it is important for me to know that he will return to as safe environment as possible. Will parents be informed if there are any students sick in their classroom/pod? Your return to learn said that one or two staff would be with the students. How will teachers get a lunch break/bathroom break if there is only one adult in the pod? Will another adult come to relieve them?

Comment:	I am speaking in support of Member Murawski's proposal to fund and develop a youth peer mental health training and support program with federal COVID funding. The mental health and SEL supports we had for students before the pandemic were not sufficient, and they are not sufficient now. I see that Public Advocates and ACLU are calling for all CA districts to "Have school counselors, social workers, and psychologists affirmatively reach out to all students to check in on their mental health through the phone and internet platforms, " and that needs to happen in SCUSD by using federal COVID funding to access more resources instead of adding to the to-do list of existing staff.

Comment:	Hello SCUSD Board Of Education, My name is Nia MooreWeathers and I am writing on behalf of Youth Forward, a local Sacramento non-profit organization dedicated to reversing youth criminalization and disinvestment from schools and youth services. Youth Forward supports the proposal by Lisa Murawski to use some of the federal relief funds on the youth peer mental health training program and the virtual enrichment program called "Pass To Class". Enrichment programs like "Pass To Class" that focus on uplifting and motivating our youth allow them not only to be encouraged to become the leaders we know they can be, but also process the difficult emotions that can come with living through unprecedented times such as these. Peer Mental Health Training programs are able take this idea one step further by giving youth the agency to help others experiencing mental health issues, and learn more about the youth communities they participate in. Supporting this proposal is to support not only youth mental wellness, but overall community safety. Thankyou.
