

Think Like A Paleontologist

I study animals, plants, and other organisms that lived in prehistoric times (more than 5,500 years ago). I study fossil remains of organisms in layers of sedimentary rocks. I learn what kind of life existed in various periods of the earth's history. I also aid in the location of oil. Oil found in rocks often contains certain fossils. Oil companies use such fossils as clue to where to find oil.